Mayor sees 'coverup, lies' in PBM woe

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

Lack of communication, deliberate lies or an outright cover-up have all been cited as possible reasons Mayor Beverly McAnally was unaware of the presence of 1.5 million tons heads, McAnally states that "we cannot allow anonymous tipsters and clandestine exchanges of information set the pattern for dissemination of vital data that involves the safety of the people."

"From this date forward, all reports concerning hazardous substances shall be forwarded

When I questioned some departmental personnel about the situation after receiving the letter, most seemed unaware but some said sure, they had known about it." - Mayor Beverly McAnally of cyanide-tainted plastic film chips stored in trailers - some leaking - in the rear of a business at 10100 Harrison Road, formerly known as PBM, a silver reclaiming operation.

In a letter from Robert Buckley, head of the Eastern Response Unit of the United States Environmental Protection Agency dated March 12, McAnally was informed of "an imminent and substantial endangerment to the public health and welfare and the environment" was present at the site. She received the letter Thursday, but police reports show that the Wayne County Pollution Control Commission and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources were aware of the problem as early as May 14, 1983.

"When I questioned some departmental personnel about the situation after receiving the letter, most seemed unaware," McAnally said, "but some said sure, they had known about it. When I asked them why they hadn't told me, they said because I wasn't mayor then. Also, they indicated that they had been led to believe there was no real threat there as long as the film chips were kept in the trailers."

In a letter dated March 25 to all city of Romulus department to the Mayor's office," the letter concluded.

"I feel that some people were keeping this quiet to protect their friends in the previous administration," McAnally said. According to police report from 1983, Mel Oakley, son of then-mayor William Oakley, was manager of the plant at the time the complaint was filed.

Attorney William Matakas, who owns the land and leases it, is embroiled in a lawsuit to "get PBM to clean up their waste in a safe way and restore my property so it is usable again." Matakas confirmed that Oakley was plant manager, "but only for a short period of time."

Buckley, who wrote the letter to McAnally, later claimed in a telephone conversation that "there is no vital threat at this time. There are worse - more toxic and more potentially dangerous - places than the Harrison Road site all over the state, and some worse in Romulus." Buckley would not go into detail except to say that many airport facilities "are extremely dangerous."

Last Tuesday, McAnally had more than 150 letters hand-delivered to residents near the potentially dangerous site, warning them of the danger. When asked about reports of small amounts of cyanide in the area groundwaters. Matakas replied he had heard the reports, but not officially. "I have requested that such tests be done, but I haven't heard anything directly from the EPA or the DNR," Matakas said.

McAnally says she is angry over "being kept in the dark, particularly in a situation like this. I want the citizens to know that I and my department heads are doing everything possible to make sure nothing like this catches us by surprise again." McAnally added that she and her staff will be coming up "plans of action" should emergency situations crop up near any of the potentially hazardous businesses near the airport and throughout Romulus.

Acting on a request from McAnally, Matakas had a large fence constructed around the abandoned trailers over the weekend to keep the curious safely away.

Voters approve school millages

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

A rather slim turnout at the polls Monday narrowly passed a 9-mill renewal, gaining another victory for the resurging Romulus school system.

In Huron Township a heavier than usual turnout easily passed an 18.82 mill renewal for five years, 1,005 for to 526 opposed. A 6.75 mill increase, needed to offset cuts in state funding, failed for the second consecutive time, but superintendent of schools Gary Jackson has hope for the future.

"We gained a lot, but we didn't win," said Jackson, adding that "we're going to have to keep on talking about this, letting the people know what it's for and that it isn't an extravagance, and then by the time the next election rolls around in June, hopefully we'll make it."

The proposed increase was defeated by a 795-720 vote margin. In December, the same increase failed by over 300 votes.

In Romulus, superintendent Dr. William Bedell had predicted the schools would need a large turnout at the polls to pass the renewal, but despite the slim turnout, the 9 mill figure passed by a narrow 67 votes, 792 yes votes to 725 no.

Bedell credited the win to "the good faith we've won with the people of Romulus. We made certain promises to them if they passed the millage increase, and we've come through. Buildings are being repaired, sixth hours have been reinstated, there are new computer programs, everything."

In Huron, Jackson said he has faith in the future, because "it's obvious that many people have listened to us with an open mind and believe in us and in the kids. Next time we'll do it."

Council, mayor to quiz Barden

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

There will be a special public meeting at 7 p.m. tonight (March 27) at Romulus City Hall preceding the regular meeting of the city council. The purpose of the special meeting is to allow council members, administrators and citizens to question cable television entrepreneur Don Barden, owner of Barden Cablevision of Romulus, and to give Barden the chance to personally explain the delays which have hampered the Romulus system.

In addition to Barden, the city council has demanded that members of the city's cable television commission be in attendance.

According to the franchise agreement, Barden had 14 months to completely wire the city from the time the company pulled their building permits. That timetable runs out at the end of August, at which time a $1,000 fine per day could be levied against Barden, says cable commission chairman Claude Ray Williams.

Currently, there are approximately 215 homes in Romulus receiving cable television, with the option available to another 215, said Williams. There are more than 8,000 homes in Romulus, and it was the apparent hold-ups that prompted council to call the meeting.

Any residents wishing to attend the meeting are urged to do so, according to Councilman Bill Wadsworth.

Getting the frontier spirit

As the Romulus Sesquicentennial prepares to kick off its celebration with a bang, these two young men are dressed for the part with their buckskins and coonskin caps. The muskets seem to be telling Community Relations Director Dennis Davidson (center) to "dance, stranger!" On the left is Lloyd Varner, a 10-year-old Romulus frontiersman, and on the right is frontiersman Marc Herrmann, 12.

Who are these good looking frontier women and why have they come to town? Closer inspection reveals them to be some of Romulus' best known socialites, including (from left) Helen Morris Hay, vice-president of the Romulus Historical Society; Pearl E. Varner, club president; Delores Wilson, member; Mayor Beverly McAnally; Kristine DeTroyer, sesquicentennial committee; and, in front and proudly holding the new Romulus 150th birthday sign is Pearl M. Morris. Remember, the Romulus Sesquicentennial Celebration formally kicks off at noon Saturday, March 30, at Kennedy Park at "Five Points." For more information call Dennis Davidson at 941-0666.

Downsize Your Monthly Payments

Without Downsizing Your New Car

There it is, in the middle of the showroom. The car. It's the right color, with all the right options. You step closer, inhaling the "new car smell." But then, the sticker price takes your breath away. And the next model down suddenly begins to look a lot better.

Lower your payments, not your expectations.

There isn't much you can do about today's high, new-car prices — but you can lower your monthly payments with a Flex Rate Auto Loan from Wyandotte Savings Bank.

Flex your credit muscle. WSB Flex Rate loans have lower monthly payments because the variable interest rate is lower than on fixed-rate loans. The interest rate may periodically change according to current Treasury bill rates, but rate increases are "capped" and your monthly payment amount never goes up. If rates fall, you'll make fewer payments. If they go up, the payment term is extended.

To apply for a WSB Flex Rate Auto Loan, ask your dealer, or come to any office of Wyandotte Savings Bank. So when you shop for a new car, you won't have to settle for less — just pay less every month.

CHIROPRACTIC OUTLOOK

By Dr. Thomas Anderson
POSTURE POINTS

TRACTION A HEALER

Stubborn body aches? The fault could be spinal curvature or misalignment of one or more of your vertebrae. A chiropractic exam locates the cause of your muscle spasms, soreness and general tiredness -- most likely, a derangement and impingement of one or more segments of your spine. Your chiropractor recognizes that the slightest spinal disorder can cause severe pain. Ask about the natural drugless and corrective treatment of traction by hand. This drugless healing method uses the application of a gentle pulling manipulation directed to your neck, lower back or entire spine. Traction, in combination with chiropractic adjustments is used to correct most spinal misalignments and reposition your vertebrae in correct arrangement.

Libel-slander alleged

Ex-Van Buren police officer sues township, chief

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A former member of the Van Buren Police Department and his wife have filed a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court charging the township police chief and the township have libeled and slandered them.

The ex-officer who was a member of the reserves, Richard A. Waddell, and his wife, Marilyn, are asking the court for awards of more than $10,000 each for the alleged libel and slander. In court documents, Waddell stated that "all alleged acts done by the defendant, Leonard Paul Keller, were done under the cover and authority of his being the Chief of Police of Van Buren Township."

The document was filed on Feb. 20, 1985 in Circuit Court by Waddell's attorney, W. R. Moore of Milford.

While acting as a Van Buren Township patrolman, Waddell stated in his complaint, he received on October 25, 1982 an internal order which stated, in part, "Detectives are now assigned cases on a daily basis. Please do not tell victims that detectives will be out to see them. It is your responsibility to take the case as far as you can take it."

Waddell further stated that on October 30, 1982 he (Waddell) acting as a Van Buren Township patrolman, responded to a complaint concerning a report of a needle found in a loaf of bread."

During the investigation of the case, Waddell stated, he was informed by Police Chief Keller that he (Waddell) had used improper procedures.

Waddell alleges the controversy eventually led to a letter of reprimand from the police chief that was designed "to only humiliate and pressure him (Waddell) and "that during the ensuing weeks the police chief altered the plaintiff's work schedule and shifts knowing that he couldn't cover...and that after continued pressure from the police chief Waddell decided to resign as a patrolman.

Waddell said he later discovered that his file was tampered with and altered. He said that his file contained notations that indicated that he was terminated and not that he had resigned.

Waddell also said in court papers that he discovered that various letters of commendations placed in his personal files in prior years by previous administrations had been removed.

Waddell is asking for more than $10,000.

After December of 1982, Waddell said he applied to six other police departments to become a reserve officer and was turned down. Waddell believes he was turned down because the "defendants were wrongfully and intentionally informing other police departments he (Waddell) was terminated and not that he had resigned."

As late as March 1, 1984, an article in the Detroit Free Press disseminated false information about the plaintiff's departure from the local police department, according to Waddell.

Waddell is asking the courts for more than $10,000 in damages to his reputation and standings in the community.

Mrs. Waddell is asking for $10,000 for the loss of the "care, companionship and consortium of her marriage by virtue of her husband's injuries."

Township officials and Police Keller said they can't comment on the case upon advice of the township attorney.

Other side of Meridian

People who care

by TOM MOORADIAN

Like the "Minutemen" of 1776 he would like to resurrect, Charles Niemann has a toughness and a charm about him. His 'never-say-die' philosophy is drawing and rallying supporters to his cause.

Simply put, Niemann wants people to get involved in their community.

And in the light of the apathy that permeates most of us who are called to volunteer time and money for various community projects, Niemann unquestionably is going to need a lot of help to reach his goal.

Niemann is recruiting local residents to join a modern day 'Minuteman Movement' to accomplish a wide range of tasks.

"I want people to get involved in their communities," Niemann said who was recently named as chairman of the Belleville-Van Buren-Sumpter Civic Affairs Steering Committee, an offspring of a city-wide civic organization dinner-meeting.

"We believe our three communities have a lot to offer and our task is to convince people who can invest to do so here and also bring about change by doing and working together."

Niemann, a Ford Motor Company employee who was named to fill a vacancy on the Belleville City Council created by the death of the former mayor, Howard Stinehour, said that his recent campaign to get residents to donate 10 hours or $10 is paying off.

"We have at least 30 citizens who have stepped forward and offered to help. But I won't be satisfied until we have an army of thousands. And believe me that day will come."

Niemann points to the recent accomplishments in Northville and Plymouth where revitalization of the central business community has become a tremendous success.

"It's also an image problem," Niemann continued. "We need to believe in what we are doing. We have to, to use a cliché, 'think positively.' I believe our combined communities have the people with the intelligence and know-how to do the job better than it was done in the surrounding communities. Our mission is to gather those people in one place and harness that knowledge."

If you believe in yourself and your community, Niemann wants to hear from you.

You can also sign up for the "Minuteman Movement" at the following locations: Andrews Rexall Pharmacy, Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, Belleville City Hall, Van Buren and Sumpter Township halls, Brass Belle Restaurant, Bud's TV, Golden Boy Restaurant, Hamilton Hardware, Moose Lodge, Tin Lizzie Restaurant, Van Buren Public Schools Administration Building, and Gene Continental Barber Shoppe.

In the meantime, residents in the Oakbrook Subdivision in Romulus can sign a breathe of relief. The Romulus City Council is studying plans to construct a "back door" to the subdivision in case residents have to evacuate during an emergency.

Residents of that subdivision apparently have only one street to exit (and return) - and that's Eureka Road. The infamous February 23rd incident convinced city officials that an alternative route is necessary into and from the subdivision. What happened on that date was incessant rains caused tanks of gasoline at a nearby gas station to rise from its foundation. Fearing some kind of explosion, police quickly shut off the area. Persons residing in the subdivision however couldn't enter and those inside the dwellings couldn't leave. And during such crisis one wonders if their loved ones are allright.

"I have over the years asked council to study the possibility of constructing an alternate route for the residents in that subdivision and after that potentially dangerous situation last month, council agreed," said councilman Barry Baumann. "The alternative or 'back-door' route will lead to Pennsylvania Road.

"Do you know that this subdivision is unique," Baumann continued. "It is the only one in the city, I believe, that has only one exit. And we hope to rectify that in the nearest future."

They're girl scouts

Founder's day set in Romulus

The Sesquicentennial Founder's Day Ceremony will be staged Sat., March 30 at Kennedy Park and the adjacent Wesleyan Methodist Church.

Ceremonies will begin at noon. The program will begin in the park with flag raising by the Romulus VFW and the National Anthem as performed by the high school band. The VFW will present a gun salute followed by a liftoff of 150 balloons.

The next portion of the ceremony will be held in the church with the reading of original township minutes, a message from President Ronald Reagan, followed by brief speeches by elected officials and invited guests. There also will be a fashion show.

It could be illegal

Is your city collecting late charges ?

Is your city or township illegally collecting late penalty charges on your property taxes?

That question recently stirred some controversy in Romulus where the city administration had ordered city treasurer John Lewkowicz to charge penalties for those who paid their property taxes late.

"Usually the local unit of government doesn't impose the penalty tax unless so ordered because elected officials are wary of reaction from the electorate," said Lewkowicz. "Unless council approves late charge penalties, we can't, as treasurers, do so."

Lewkowicz said he recently discussed the issue of late charges with George McEachran, Wayne County Equalization Director and Assessor, and Emil Tavonon, Michigan Tax Administrator, and they informed him, via telephone, that state law clearly defines the treasurer and municipality's jurisdiction in collecting late fees.

On the subject of collecting taxes, state law states (211.44(1); Section (7)... "For levies that become a lien in 1983 or any year thereafter, the local property tax collecting treasurer shall not impose a property tax administration fee or late penalty charge authorized by law or charter unless the governing body of the local property tax collecting unit approves, by resolution or ordinance adopted after the effective date of this subsection, an authorization for the imposition of a property tax administration fee or a late penalty charge provided by this section, which authorization shall be valid for all levies that become a lien after the resolution or ordinance is adopted."

"The law is there," Lewkowicz said, "and it is clear. We just can't collect late charges unless the council says so. And I don't think the council would go on record to do so. They could become very unpopular."

Gospel choirs raise $3,000 for Sumpter Center

The Christian Fellowship of Sumpter Township presented a Mass Choir Concert Sunday to raise funds for the Sumpter Community Center and the performance paid off to the gospel tune of approximately $3,000.

Over 500 persons attended the concert and taking part in the choir were choir groups from the Gospel Highlights, Gospel Experience and the Gospel Sound.

Among the dignitaries attending the concert were Frank Wilkerson, who represented Wayne County Executive William Lucas; Margaret Crawford, president of the Lincoln Consolidated Board of Education; Sumpter Township supervisor Clarence Hoffman, Jr., and trustees John Morgan, Virgil Humphreys, Thomas Gondek and Joan Oddy. Unable to attend were township trustees Barbara Dudek and Lou Banotai.

Also present in the crowd was township attorney Louis Wechsler.

The concert raised approximately $3,000.

Our Town

Here's what's happening in "Our Town" this week:

Those who are interested in running for school board seats have until Monday, April 8 to get their nominating petitions to the Board of Education offices.

Candidates are required to be residents of the school district they seek to represent and also must be registered voters of that district.

Prospective candidates' petitions must contain the signatures of registered voters in their school district. Candidates are urged to telephone their school board offices for further information. The annual school election will be conducted on Monday, June 10.

A resolution authored by Huron Township trustee Christine Gamber and supported by many local communities, urges Congress "to continue the federal sharing program pertinent to local government... because federal revenue sharing all locations have made possible many community improvements which otherwise would have remained uncompleted..."

Because of the huge federal budget deficit Congress is considering abolishing the revenue sharing program.

In association with the Wayne County Community College's Western campus in Belleville, the Beaumont Management Associates, Ltd. will offer a 6-week seminar to teach small business owner/entrepreneurs/managers "exactly what it takes to become a success."

"Success Begins with Me" is the theme for the seminar that will be conducted beginning 7 p.m. April 17 at the local community college.

For registration or further information regarding the seminar, contact Beaumont Management at 313-665-9845.

The 20 or so new stamps issued each year are the result of ideas submitted by "ordinary people" says Belleville Postmaster Patrick J. Tobin who offers this advice to those who have ideas for new stamps.

"Merchandise" your suggestion, that is, write a detailed explanation of why your idea should become a stamp. The more details the better it has to be accepted. Second, there is strength in numbers. A wise suggester will ask interested organizations and prominent individuals to build a campaign to support the suggestion, Tobin says.

New stamps become reality after an 18-member Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, appointed by the Postmaster General, thumb through the thousands request, then return the final recommendations to the Postmaster General for approval.

Share tax dollars

Local officials are predictably irritated and concerned with the proposed termination of the general revenue sharing program in the 1986 federal budget suggested by President Reagan.

The Michigan Municipal League as well as many governmental bodies have gone on record in vehement opposition to cutbacks in revenue sharing funds, which are used in most cases to provide public services at the local level. They argue that the end of such assistance is ill-advised considering the detrimental effect such losses will have on the ability of local entities to offer essential services.

The general revenue sharing program was created in 1972 as a means of giving state and local governments federal fiscal aid with minimum federal involvement and maximum flexibility for local leaders to direct the monies into the highest priority areas for their individual communities.

Reauthorized in 1976, 1980 and 1983, the program has targeted proportionately more assistance to less affluent communities while at the same time rewarding jurisdictions making the greatest effort to meet the public service needs of their residents with their own local tax dollars. Revenue sharing funds have become an integral part of local government budgets throughout the nation.

There is little doubt that this program has proven to be an efficient means of bringing tax dollars back from Washington to local communities. However, the proposed elimination of revenue sharing apparently comes as part of a deficit sharing plan aimed at cutting into the astronomical federal deficit.

The concept of a big spending government is one which has been rejected by the voters through their support of fiscally conservative elected officials. Citizens are demanding fiscal restraint from their governmental leaders; with such restraints they also must be prepared to see cutbacks in services.

To cut the revenue sharing program as a sign of fiscal integrity represents some flawed thinking. First of all, this program is one of the few which actually brings local tax monies back home to help provide such services as police and fire protection, garbage collection and other valuable assets to the quality of life. Michigan already is being shortchanged in this area since it ranks among the leaders in terms of amount of tax funds sent to Washington while at the same time rating near the bottom of the 50 states in the amount of monies returned for state and local usage.

Secondly, the elimination of revenue sharing would be far more palatable if it represented an across-the-board attempt to reduce the size of the federal government. Such is not the case.

General revenue sharing is the only form of federal assistance received by more than 30,000 local governments and ranks as the most cost-effective program to administer of any federal program.

We join local communities in support of a continuation of general revenue sharing. It is our belief that termination of this program eventually will result in the loss of important local services or tax increases at the local level.

We also concur with the urging of Westland officials who encourage everyone to make a 22-cent investment and send a letter to our local Congressmen and Senators in Washington voicing support for a sharing of tax dollars with local communities.

Elimination of local services while proposing another $31 billion increase in defense spending simply lacks a sense of consistency. As long as local taxpayers fill federal coffers, they have every right to expect some reciprocal assistance.

The general revenue sharing program deserves to be continued, not terminated.

'Monuments and immortality'

The domed structure, open on four sides to passing view, stands between the tidal basin and the freeway in Washington, D.C.

I have raced by the well-known monument many times, catching a quick glimpse through the taxi window of the likeness of the immortal statesman. He was barely visible between the huge pillars of the memorial, as I rushed to or from the airport. Only once before had I made a visit inside the open enclosure of this famous monument.

The Jefferson Memorial, located in our nation's capitol, stands as a tribute to the life and work of one of this country's most ingenious and notable "fathers."

Last week, when I finished my business in Washington, I had time for a walk...a perfect opportunity for some exercise and a first-hand inspection of the progress of the cherry blossoms. I passed the White House, walked up the hill past the Washington monument and circled the tidal basin.

An elderly man and his son sat on the concrete wall beside the water, fishing. A jogger lumbered by, his Walkman firmly in place. As I approached the Jefferson monument, a startled grey squirrel ran across my path into the brush and scampered up a nearby tree. Two park rangers strolled by, chatting. An Air Force helicopter flew low overhead, coming from the direction of the White House.

I climbed the 43 stairs to face the man I had come to see. There he stood, staring out at the capitol city of the nation he had helped to found. "Thomas Jefferson, 1743-1846," the inscription below his buckled shoes reads. In his hand he holds a rolled document, one of the many no doubt penned by his own hand for the ages. His long hair brushes the collar of his dress coat which hangs unbuttoned, revealing his ascot and knee britches.

A visit to this temple of reverence honoring this great man is akin to a religious experience. Encircling the dome, inscribed in the stone, are the words, "I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of men."

Outside, the same Air Force chopper flew by, visible through the massive columns. I sat myself on one of the stone benches and looked thoughtfully up at the magnificent statue.

A young Vietnamese mother and her daughter entered the monument as I had just minutes before. They approached and stood at his feet, read the inscription and peered up a distance of at least 20 feet to his face. They stood but a moment. The little girl said, "Mama," and her mother lifted her into her arms and held her tightly. She walked away to the steps outside, where she sat, hugging her baby, staring out at the Washington horizon.

Soon they were joined by Grandma. She doesn't walk so well, and limps badly on her left foot. The three approach, stare up at Jefferson, and then wander around the rotunda, reading the inscriptions attached to the walls in metal letters.

"We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights. Among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." The young mother and aged Grandmother chatted in their native tongue. Enter Dad, camera in hand. Mom brushed the baby's hair and posed her at Jefferson's feet. "Snap," a photo to immortalize the moment and then they left.

Tourists have repeated this scene millions of times since the Jefferson Memo-

Dislikes commentary

To the Editor:

In a recent editorial article by Mr. Tom Mooradian about Romulus City government, the statement was made "now back to the Iran-Iraq wars."

I did not know that there was any military action going on in Romulus! Neither did anyone else I talked to.

So I must assume the statement was made to make an already difficult situation at City Hall worse.

It is a shame that a disagreement cannot be left at that without any theatrical commentary.

Mr. Mooradian has always had a habit of ignoring the positive and editorializing about the bad in Romulus. Too bad that mere reporting of the facts which was done on the front page is not enough for Mr. Mooradian.

I wonder whose lapse in judgement brought him back from the sports page to page three. It was a bad move in my opinion.

Security for poor?

To the Editor:

I am sure that the poor women of Michigan are feeling very secure today.

Perhaps they cannot:

- Buy nutritious food for their family
- Meet their medical and dental needs
- Have a well-running car to get to a well-paying job
- Have adequate heating and other utilities
- Enjoy housing in a crime-free neighborhood
- Afford warm clothing in the latest styles

But nevertheless they can get pregnant and the state of Michigan will be more than happy to pay them to have an abortion. They may be paid to terminate the life of their innocent unborn children so that these children do not have to be born to suffer the same poor life with their mothers as delineated above.

Forgive us, Lord.

K of C request

To the Editor:

A recent article in the newspapers heralded the drop in the country's divorce rate. It looks as if the tone is changing from a "me" society to one of cooperation and respect. Could this be because of the improved employment picture or is it just a temporary swing in the pendulum of life?

Whatever the reason, we must not forget that millions of innocent victims of divorce, the children, must cope with a new life.

Raising children even in a two parent home is difficult and burdensome task. Often in a single parent home, it becomes a problem of monumental proportions. Problems in discipline, schools, day care for the kids, housework, budget management, and learning the skills to do things that were once the domain of the absent parent seem almost insurmountable. Where does one go for help?

True, there are splinter groups for aid with child support, divorce counseling, etc. But where is there an organization dedicated to the welfare of single parents and their children?

Such a group was formed 28 years ago on March 21. A group with many low cost programs of "family" type activities for the children. Thousands, no, millions of children have benefited from the extended family that Parents Without Partners offers. This organization also provides the adults with the opportunity for emotional support and growth that single parents need.

Single parents or those who know of someone who is, should contact the local chapter of Parents Without Partners or call 255-9613.

Foster care homes

To the Editor:

I am currently a resident at the Lovingest Home (an adult foster care home) on John Street in Wayne. We residents have our problems but mostly we need support from the community and a decent place to live.

For some this is home but for others it serves as a place to make the transition from the hospital back to the community. Life is not always easy nor is it fair.

Wayne has its share of problems but I think it also has a lot of caring people and a lot of workers making it a good community. I think it's a fine thing that Wayne has foster care homes. I think the average Westland council delays Wilhelmi decisio.

The Westland City Council and Mayor Charles Pickering sat down together Monday night in a study session in hopes of hammering out their differences over the mayor's appointment of George Wilhelmi as the city's new planning director.

The council balked at confirming the appointment at its meeting last week because of a lack of what Councilman Thomas Artley called "courtesy information" about the appointment.

Wilhelmi has served as the interim planning director since January on a contractual basis, with the contract set to expire March 31, unless extended by council. Under the charter, the council has to approve or reject the appointment within two meetings of the mayor's naming of the director. Their second meeting will be April 1.

According to the mayor, the position was advertised and the applicants were screened by a committee, made up of three members of the city's Planning Commission--George Lomas, Dorothy Murphy and Joseph Hawrylak. That committee was responsible for checking the applicants for minimum requirements for the position and with conducting interviews with the three finalists.

Their recommendation, Wilhelmi, was then forwarded to the mayor, who in a letter to the council dated March 5, informed them of his appointment of Wilhelmi to the position.

Artley pointed out that the mayor's letter did not give enough information about the appointment and asked that at least one member of the committee be present at the study session. The mayor countered that that request was inappropriate since "I am the appointing authority."

"Their sole role was the screening of the applicants," Pickering added. "The only persons you're going to talk to are me and George Wilhelmi."

Artley countered that "that's not enough. If you don't have the courtesy to sit down with this council to just give us courtesy information...well, I don't think you held up your end of the agreement."

The mayor contended that he had requested such a meeting and that the council had adequate time in which to set up a study session.

"Don't tell me you didn't have enough time; don't tell me you didn't have this soon enough," Pickering told the council during a heated exchange over the postponement. "The study session was requested, and you didn't bother to set one up in the last two weeks."

Council President Charles Griffin pointed out to the council that a study session on the appointment had not been scheduled prior to it appearing on the council agenda March 4 because "we didn't have time to have one."

"I'll take responsibility for this one," Griffin said. "The mayor was desirous of a study session and I didn't schedule one, so let it fall on my shoulders."

"I never had the opportunity to do that, but we can still have one before the next meeting."

"You put the council on a tremendous spot," Councilman Kenneth Mehl told the mayor. "I thought you would be informing us of what was going on, how many were interviewed, if Wilhelmi was getting back to us. You didn't do that."

Hawrylak, in a letter to the city council, indicated that the committee reviewed more than 20 applications and eliminated those candidates who didn't possess the necessary educational or leadership qualities specified in the key requirements for the position. He noted that "though many resumes were received, it was not a rich field of candidates."

Hawrylak added that three candidates--the "best in the field" of the applicants--were interviewed by the committee. One was found to be an excellent researcher, but lacking in leadership qualities, while another was an excellent candidate "with a little seasoning." Wilhelmi was, according to a consensus of the committee, "head and shoulders" above the other finalists.

"Most of all, Mr. Wilhelmi demonstrated his leadership while performing as acting director," Hawrylak noted. "In our opinion, Dale Farland (the former planning director) was an excellent director of planning and we were all sorry to see her leave the city. However, George Wilhelmi has filled the job not only capably, but brings a deep personal interest and dedication to the job that I find refreshing and rare in public officials."

Wilhelmi, a member of the city's Planning Commission prior to the interim appointment, worked as a civil engineer with the Detroit firm of Morris, Levine & Associates, Inc., coordinating the design and construction of paving, sewer and water projects and acting as liaison and project engineer with various municipalities.

He also served as the director of urban renewal for the Village of Rochester and as the director of housing and renewal for the City of Romulus.

A family tradition

Mulholland's provides community-minded service

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Managing Editor

"Early morning fire hits Mulholland's declared the banner headline on The Daily Eagle front page. The date was Tuesday, Dec. 8, 1970.

Since William R. Mulholland founded Mulholland Dry Goods Co. in 1919, the company has experienced its share of ups and downs. The fire at the store, then located at S. Wayne Road near Michigan Avenue, fortunately did not prove too damaging; owner William R. Mulholland Jr. already was in the midst of moving operations to the new mall in town, Metro Place Mall.

An original tenant in the downtown Wayne mall, Mulholland's has survived recessions and numerous problems involving the mall's management to continue its 66-year tradition

'Mulholland's means business in Wayne. The Mulhollands are carrying on an American tradition in this city.'

- Mayor Patrick Norton

of service to the Wayne community. Today it remains one of the most respected businesses in Wayne.

"Mulholland's means business in Wayne," observed Mayor Patrick Norton. "The Mulhollands are carrying on an American tradition in this city. There have been three generations of Mulhollands who have done an outstanding job for Wayne. They have given a family commitment to the town that goes beyond being businessmen...they have been committed to the church and numerous community organizations as well."

"Family" and Mulholland's seem to fit together perfectly. Although Mr. Mulholland passed away in 1959, the traditional family values are very much alive today at this department store. Mulholland's is a family store, devoting more than 12,000 square feet to merchandise for every member of the family. Name-brand clothes are featured in a clean, friendly environment.

William R. Mulholland Jr. and his son William G. Mulholland, one of 10 Mulholland children, oversee the operations, providing a personal touch that reminds the shopper that Mulholland's is a local, independent business rather than a small piece in a large corporation. Mulholland's wife of 30 years, Phyllis, also works here as do younger Mulhollands Kathleen, Teresa and Michael.

"They're our version of J.L. Hudson's," said Community Development Director John Zech. "They are Wayne's only department store and as long as they remain in the mall, the mall has a future as a retail outlet. The Mulholland family has hung in there during some tough times—I give them credit."

Mr. Mulholland opened his dry goods firm in Wayne after working in a wholesale company in New York City. His sales' job took him throughout the midwest and eventually led to his opening of a store following World War I in an area he had never lived in before.

"He heard that people needed a store around here," explained his son, who has seen the business expand considerably during the years. "We hope to be here for a long time. Half of our success has come from the fine quality of our employees, people like Jim Collins and Janet Cooper. Many of our employees (the company has a work force of some 15 persons) have been with us for a long time.

"We are committed to this mall," he pointed out. "There's a new developer and hopefully things will improve."

While several businesses have left the mall during tough financial times, the Mulhollands have persevered through hard work, quality service and an identity that can be compared to motherhood and apple pie.

Active throughout the community, the elder Mulholland is a charter member of the Rotary Club and holds membership in the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion and St. Mary's Catholic Church. A graduate of Wayne High School, he is a lifelong Wayne resident.

His son also is no stranger to the Wayne community. Bill graduated from Wayne Memorial High and earned a degree in retailing from Michigan State University. He serves as president of the Wayne Festival Commission, is an officer in the Rotary Club and remains active at St. Mary's.

Of course, civic-mindedness and strong family traditions alone don't ensure success in the business world. Conglomerates and national outlets have pressured the "little guy" and a growing number of independent businesses have been forced to succumb.

Not Mulholland's.

Business has changed considerably," the elder Mulholland pointed out last Thursday morning as he prepared for another day at the store. "The biggest difference today is the amount of competition...it gets greater everyday. There are proportionately fewer independents around and more and more of the big stores.

"The advantage of being a local store was that it was located closer to home but even that is getting to be less and less," he admitted. "People are more mobile and willing to travel for shopping.

"We make all of the decisions, good or bad, ourselves," he said. "We've had to become jack of all trades."

The Mulholland identity and reputation continues to attract shoppers from throughout western Wayne County. The store's success as a distributor of Boy Scout's uniforms also has helped spread the word about the Mulholland tradition to other communities.

William Mulholland (right) is part of a family tradition at the Mulholland's department store in downtown Wayne. Founded in 1919 by Mulholland's father, the store is a well-known fixture in the Metro Place Mall. Mulholland's son Bill (left) serves as the assistant general manager and daughter Teresa is among the Mulholland family members who work at the store.

Mulholland's is open from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays; 9 a.m. till 6 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and is closed on Sundays. The store is located in the Metro Place Mall, situated off Michigan Avenue west of Wayne Road in downtown Wayne.

The motto of this 21,000 population community for many is "It's Great to Live in Wayne." And nothing seems to symbolize the positive aspects of a tight-knit community as does the Mulholland's tradition.

Cat is basis of promotion

Shoppers at The Country Mouse can assist all the friends of Fred the Great this Friday as part of a special Moonlight Madness promotion.

Fred happens to be the popular cat who went from the life of a stray to a regular home at The Country Mouse store, located at 34836 Michigan Ave. After living in the alley behind the store's former location, Fred was befriended by the store owner, Dorothy Siano, and now is considered one of the family at the establishment.

To help other stray animals, Siano is offering a 15 percent discount on any item in her store Friday for those who make a contribution of food or money to the Michigan Humane Society. Persons are asked to bring their contributions into the store as part of the Moonlight Madness celebration in Wayne.

The Country Mouse is a full-service miniature shop with items for the beginner as well as the serious collector. Featured are various dollhouses and miniatures, including accessories, lighting supplies, furniture and building materials.

In addition to the miniatures, the store offers classes for beginning and advanced collectors. For further information on the selections or classes, contact Siano by calling 326-5766. Store hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday (until 9 p.m. on Friday).

Harlow tackles state...

They didn't do all that well, but in spite of the losses, the Harlow Tire Bantam A Hockey team had a great time at the recent state championships in Escanaba.

It was a thrill of a lifetime for the team, made up of 13- to 15- years olds, their coaches and families, who all made the trek north March 7 for the competition.

I took plenty of hard work practicing and honing their hockey skills throughout the season at the Westland Multi-Purpose Arena, and while the three losses at the state competition didn't set well with the team, they still view being there as "an honor".

The team, coached by Gene Taurianen, won a berth in the state championships by outstanding their competition in the District 1 playoffs in February.

The state is divided into eight districts, with the winners of those eight districts competing for the state title.

The district competition allows teams two losses before they are eliminated from the playoffs. The Harlow Tire team had one loss when it went into the final matchup against the Wayne Bantam A team, which had a perfect record.

Harlow played the Wayne team on Feb. 10, posting a 5-3 victory, and came back on Feb. 11 to score a second victory, 4-2, against them, eliminating them from the competition and sewing up the berth on the state championships.

"They were really excited; it was what they had worked for all year long," team manager Cindy Taurianen said. "We lost the first game (in the district's) to Garden City, so that put us in the losers bracket. It was an uphill battle for us after that."

The state championship has the eight teams divided into two divisions-National and American. After playing each of the teams in the two divisions, sions, the two leaders in those two groups advance to the semi-finals. The winning team played a total of five games in three day's time.

The bus trip north cost the team $2,000, with donations from different individuals helping to defray those expenses. Joining the team were their parents--54 strong --to make certain they had a big cheering section for their games.

The team practiced four or five times a week at the arena, and in preparation for the state competition, continued their regular practice schedule, although fitting a couple of two-hour sessions to ready for a gruelling weekend of hockey.

"The boys are used to being one the ice a lot" Taurianen pointed out, "so they're not going overboard in preparation for the championship."

She admitted that competition would be "good" at the championships and that there would "be some very exciting hockey games played." There was an added hope of making it all the way to the top.

While the team may not have made it that far, they are proud they had the opportunity to go, a first for the first for this team.

Involved with the Taurianens in coaching the team are Randy Ollila and Bob Garcia, while on the receiving end of the instruction are Eddie Otlewski, Dale Waltz, Chris Taurianen, Brian Harlow, Derrick Delacourt, Dennis Kissel, Matt Prouty, Jeff Garcia, Todd Abernathy, Paul Cramer, Jim Jones, Mark McCormick, Jerry Hakala, Mike Zajdel and Andy Cielieska.

What's in store for next season? With plenty of practice and sharp shooting, a chance to bring haome the state crown.

"They were really excited; it was what they had worked for all year long. We lost the first game to Garden City so that put us in the loser's bracket. It was an uphill battle for us after that."

Team Manager Cindy Taurianen

Mack favors youth crime prevention program proposal

With a critical vote from Commissioner Milton Mack, the Wayne County Commission is continuing with development of a youth crime-prevention program following override of County Executive William Lucas' veto of $500,000 funding for the project.

The veto was defeated 10-3 with 2 abstentions. Mack voting with the two-thirds majority needed for the override.

"It demonstrates the commitment of the Commission to effectively deal with the youth-crime problem facing our country," said Mack. The override is a statement of policy, reflecting determination of the Commission to set aside those funds and not allow them for any other use.

"Since the Chief Executive Officer has said crime is his first priority, I think it is important to finance one of the root sources of crime."

In his veto message Lucas said the newly proposed anti-crime program lacks a definite plan and is too vague in concept. Mack, however, says extensive planning is underway.

Prior to the commission meeting on the veto, Mack attended a session attended by Presiding Juvenile Judge Y. Gladys Barsamian, Detroit City Councilman John Peebles, and Leonard Smith, Executive Director of the Skillman Foundation, a Detroit charity, which funds youth development activities.

Mack said the commission will cooperate with Judge Barsamian in devising a program sentencing non-violent young offenders to work on community service projects rather than jail.

With support from Peebles, Councilwomen Erma Henderson and Barbara Rose Collins, the Detroit City Council is considering a $100,000 contribution to the program, said Mack. The Skillman Foundation has pledged willingness and that a funding proposal will be submitted for consideration at its next board meeting in May. The Skillman Foundation already has given $120,000 to an Oakland County youth program, and other youth-assistance programs are operating in Livonia, Dearborn and Redford Township, Mack noted.

"Although some cities are already active in this area, the responsibility for comprehensive youth programs really lies with the County, not individual cities, such services should be county wide said Mack.

He said the next planning phase for the county program will include the drafting of a tentative ordinance for discussion at a county-wide conference — complete with workshops — convened for school officials, police, court personnel, community organizations, city representatives and parent groups.

Mack stressed that the program is not intended for hardcore young criminals, but only first and second offenders involved in minor crime, such as crimes against property.

"It will rely considerably on public service and restitution as alternatives to incarceration, and may involve mandatory counseling," he said.

The program also will rely substantially on volunteers, according to Mack. He said the program will be directed by a professional youth cadre, but that many citizen volunteers will help supervise the youngsters.

"In this respect it would be drastically different from typical diversionary programs, which are usually overwhelmed by the court and implemented by cold, uncaring professionals altogether," Mack explained. "This approach would extensively use retirees and community council presidents, for example, and it would be highly visible in the community."

"Most diversionary programs are not apparent to the average citizens, and neither do most people understand them, but this program would actually be a part of the community."

WAYNE, MICH. MICHIGAN AVE.

This aerial shot of downtown Wayne, taken by Associated Newspapers' Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko, depicts a view of the city's past. Today such businesses as Fisher's Shoes, O'Brien Drugs, Shiffrin's and Hubbard Wayne Beauty College have been replaced with new landmarks, such as Group W Cable, Wayne Towers and Mama & Pasta's Restaurant, to name but a few changes along the Michigan Avenue corridor downtown. Although the area has changed dramatically through the years, the downtown location is still considered the business hub of the community.

Like Bogart and Bacall? Wayne Video has tapes

Wayne Video, a booming new business that caters to the growing home video crowd, has a few extras that seem to please the clientele of the store, located at 34912 Michigan in Wayne.

Brian Kozma, who opened the store last October, realized that in a business as competitive as video is now, he needed "that something extra." One such extra is evident everytime a customer leaves the store, rented videos in one hand, free bag of popcorn in the other.

"We think it's a nice thing to do, that it adds to the fun," says Kozma. "What goes together better with a good movie than some good, fresh-popped popcorn?" he asks.

Wayne Video offers a variety of club options, with one of the most popular being the normal membership plan where, for a $20 fee, you can rent films at a rate of $2.88 a day for one tape, $2.50 for the second and so on, "and," says Kozma, "there is no deposit required." For each additional day, $1 per film is charged.

Currently, Wayne Video has a stock in excess of 600 titles and, according to Kozma, an average of 20 new films are added each week. Some of the best selling and renting films include "The Little Drummer Girl," starring Diane Keaton, Bill Murray in "The Razor's Edge," Prince's "Purple Rain" and, of course, blockbusters such as "The Empire Strikes Back" and "Star Trek III."

"Believe me," says Kozma, "there are still an awful lot of trekkies out there!" Another of the reasons for the sales success of "Trek" is it's low $29 selling price, something which Kozma predicts will become the wave of the future.

In addition to renting videos that cater to all tastes and ages, Wayne Video also sells videos, blank tapes, accessories and even rents video recorder-players. The capper? They deliver! So, next time, instead of a pizza, pick up the phone and order a delivery of Bogart and Bacall. And ask for extra butter on the popcorn.

Business renovation continues in Wayne

If business site plans can be used as a measure of progress, commercial and industrial growth in Wayne continues on an upswing.

Eleven site plans for business expansion and renovation have been approved by the city council this year, a pace that would surpass the amount of projects launched in 1984 (35) and 1983 (34). Last week the council approved the expansion/renovation of Wendy's Restaurant, 32967 Michigan; American Jetway, 34136 Myrtle; Newburgh Party Store, 2904 Newburgh; Law Auto Sales, 32115 Michigan; the Department of Public Services facility, 4094 Biddle, and the Wayne Historical Museum.

What's behind the apparent boom?

An improved economy is one explanation, notes Community Development Director John Zech.

"More people are interested in locating in southeast Michigan today," Zech says. "In 'The Michigan Avenue corridor has always been a strong corridor for business. Now we're seeing expansion throughout the city. . . Hopefully we'll have some surprises to report in the future.'

--Community Development Director John Zech

Wayne we're seeing not only commercial growth but also some expansion in industrial.

"The Michigan Avenue corridor has always been a strong corridor for business," he admits. "Now we're seeing expansion throughout the city."

Even the City of Wayne is getting into the act with a proposed City Center Master Plan, a $1.5 million project that would include relocation of the 29th District Court and City Hall and expansion of the Wayne/Westland Library.

In the downtown area, citizens have witnessed a transformation of sorts in recent years with the location of a Chuck Muer Restaurant and Group W Cable and the construction of a new Wayne Bank facility highlighting the development. The presence of a new management firm at the Metro Place Mall also is viewed by community developers as a positive sign for the downtown area, according to Zech.

And prospects for future improvements in Wayne's commercial and industrial base appear good.

"Hopefully we'll have some surprises to report in the future," Zech revealed.

Eye to eye

Kerwin Vision Clinic, 34659 Michigan, Wayne is the home of one of the most sophisticated pieces of equipment in the vision field, an automatic keratometry and contact lens fitting device that measures the contours of the cornea, an important element in finding a proper fit for contact lenses. Testing out the machine, one of only nine in existence in the state, is Dr. Morris Ginis and technician Cindy Gutowski. The computer-based instrument takes three measurements of the eye and provides clinical data that in the past required difficult analysis.

April marks tornado season

April showers may bring May flowers, but they also bring Michigan's tornado season, according to local public safety officials.

While the national Weather Service say a tornado can occur any month of the year, April is the prime time for major tornado development.

Michigan's tornadoes usually don't begin until the end of March. The tornadoes, which grow out of spring thunderstorms, strike the southern portion of lower Michigan frequently April through June. The National Weather Service in Detroit, reports that tornadoes form on warm, muggy days when the air is full of moisture.

Something is needed to set off the severe thunderstorms that can lead to the terrifying funnel clouds. A cold front moving across the state will usually do the trick.

Warm, moist air followed by a cold front and cold air can set off severe weather activity.

Thunder, lightning, high winds and hail are characteristics of severe thunderstorms and usually accompany tornadoes.

A tornado is marked by the dark, twisting, funnel-shaped cloud that emerges from the overall cloud cover. The funnel will usually rotate in a counterclockwise direction, with high winds circulating around it.

While a thunderstorm may buffet a large area with winds up to 50 to 60 miles an hour, a tornado tears through a much smaller area with winds at speeds higher than 200 miles an hour.

The National Weather Service issues two types of tornado bulletins. A tornado watch indicates there is a possibility of tornado development over a large area. A tornado warning is more serious, indicating a tornado has been spotted in a specific area.

Once a tornado warning has been issued there isn't much time before the funnel clouds touches down. It's only a matter of minutes. There are several safety precautions that can be taken when a tornado strikes. Deputy Director Kenneth Warfield of Wayne's Fire Division advises to start before a tornado warning is even issued finding a place in your home where you can be relatively safe if and when a funnel cloud touches down. In case of a tornado emergency, he recommends:

•Going into the basement and staying underneath something heavy, like a work bench or large piece of furniture.

•If a house does not have a basement, stay on the first floor in the center of the house. The inside of a broom closet or other small area without windows located in the center of the house is an ideal place to wait out a tornado. Otherwise get under a piece of furniture to protect yourself from flying debris.

•Windows will be broken when tornado winds hit. Stay away from windows!

•If you're caught outside in a car when a tornado strikes, first try moving away from the storm by driving at right angles to its path. If that fails, get out of the car and take shelter in a ditch or ravine. Cars can be tossed around by the fierce winds, making them dangerous places to sit out a storm.

•Position yourself between the oncoming storm and the car so as not to be in the way if the car does become a flying object. Tornadoes can cause extensive damage to trailer parks, destroying lightweight mobile homes. Take shelter in some other, sturdier type of building.

•If no other type of shelter is available, go to a ditch or ravine on the south and east side of the trailer park and lie down flat against the ground.

The City of Wayne has a severe weather warning system. A test of the system is conducted every first Saturday of the month at 1 p.m., and consists of a one minute steady siren, a pause, and another minute steady siren. A "TORNADO WARNING" consists of a steady three-minute siren. When you hear the warning signal "TAKE COVER."

Antiques help brighten this men's store

There's more than a complete line of men's clothes to be found at Art Allen's, located at 35128 Michigan Ave. in Wayne.

Customers can observe numerous classic antiques from the Allen family, some dating back to the mid 1800's. Horse collars, pitchforks, hoes, clocks, photographs...the antiques draw attention and numerous inquiries. After all, where else can one see an old ice box and the finest in men's clothes in the same store.

Allen has been serving the community for some 15 years, providing a vast selection of suits, coats, shirts, slacks and even tuxedo rentals.

Five generations of the Allen family are represented in his unique antique collection.

Hudson earns Eagle Scout rank

It was a dream he had since he joined Boy Scouting in elementary school and several weeks ago Doug Hudson made that dream a reality by earning the rank of Eagle Scout.

It took four years of work as a Boy Scout to reach the highest rank in Boy Scouting, but according to Doug, it was well worth the effort. He earned 26 merit badges — a minimum of 21 are required for the rank — as well as worked on a community service project to meet the requirements for the Eagle rank.

His project was to collect food stuffs for the Pope John XXIII Hospitality House in Detroit, and collect he did. With the members of his Boy Scout Troop, Troop 1736 of the First Congregational Church in Wayne, and through flyers he

Cold or warm weather doesn't deter him from the monthly trips circulated among friends and relatives he collected more than 400 cans of food for the center.

With his mother and father, Paul and Susan Hudson of Westland, helping, he delivered the food to the center. The effort was well received by the Center's director, Fr. Russell Kohler, who joined President Ronald Reagan, U.S. Congressman William D. Ford, Gov. James Blanchard, Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton and Westland Mayor Charles Pickering in sending letters acknowledging Doug's achievement.

Doug never worried about not reaching his goal, that thought never crossed his mind, and he already has his sights on earning the gold, silver and bronze palms which compliment the rank.

He plans to continue his involvement in Scouting and probably will become an assistant scoutmaster.

His favorite part of scouting is the camping, which his troop does every month. Cold or warm weather doesn't deter him from the monthly trips and last month the troop's patrols earned freeze-out ribbons for camping in tents during cold weather.

Doug, 15, is a student at Stevenson Junior High School in Westland, and lists chemistry as his favorite subject. He also has been on the school's swim team for three years.

A carrier for the Westland Eagle, the Westlander is also looking at a possible career in law enforcement.

Fenrich (left) accepted the keys to the new car during ceremonies recently at the Detroit Auto Dealers Association in Troy. Making the presentation was Jack Demmer of Jack Demmer Ford, Wayne. A total of 14 cars worth nearly $135,000 were given away to the winner of the Auto Show's "Most Incredible Contest. The 14 cars were displayed at the show and stuffed with a variety of items such as oil cans, basketballs, pop cans and soccer balls. The total of all the items was 16,505 and the 14 entrants closest to the total were declared the winner.

Robichaud 'runs out of gas' in semi-final

The magic is gone

Leading the Bulldogs to an incredible 11-straight victories in the stretch, Robichaud Coach Bill Ayler (above) saw the winning touch fade in the shadows of Crisler Arena Friday afternoon as the Dearborn Heights cagers dropped an 84-56 decision to Saginaw Buena Vista in the semi-finals of the state basketball playoffs. In photo at the right, Robichaud's Omar Galbreath (32) connects for one of his nine baskets. He finished with a team high 20 points. Photos by ANP Chief of Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

Saginaw ends Bulldog dreams, 84-56

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A dream that began in November ended on a sunny Friday afternoon on the floor of the Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor for Coach Bill Ayler and the Robichaud Bulldogs who saw their hopes of a Class B state basketball championship shattered by a fast-moving, aggressive Buena Vista club, 84-56.

The loss snapped a 11-game Robichaud winning streak, the longest in the Dearborn Heights-based high schools productive basketball history.

Robichaud brought the curtains down on a 21-5 won-loss (school record) season that included the school's first district and regional basketball championships.

"How can you be disappointed in a team that has accomplished so much and has come so far in one season?" commented Ayler who rounded out his second season as the Bulldogs' head coach. "Sure we would have liked to win and gotten into the finals. It was a tough game to lose, but these kids can hold their heads high. We're all proud of them. They have made school history every time they walked on the floor."

Robichaud got into the semi-finals by eliminating a highly-touted Detroit Benedictine from its path, 96-70, in a game Ayler labeled as "almost perfectly played by our team."

All five Robichaud starters scored in double figures. It was not so against Buena Vista, although the "impossible dream" lingered for 14 minutes into the semi-finals. The Bulldogs held the Saginaw quintet at bay for that period of time.

Joe Ballard opened the scoring for Robichaud in the early seconds of the hotly-contested game when he sustained a personal foul driving in for a layup by Buena Vista's Mark Macon. Ballard sank both charities. Then, Raymond Carreathers made it a 5-0 ballgame as he sank one of two personal fouls, and came back with a jump shot that found the nets. Saginaw, slow in starting, picked up the tempo of the game. It responded with Damon Lowrey's free throw, but Carreathers again came back for

Parade of stars coming

Although the last of the area high school basketball teams - Robichaud - has been eliminated from the state tournaments, winter sports in this area has not been completed.

There is still the important business of picking the best of the best for the Associated Newspapers' annual All-Area teams.

The ANP sports staff is busy gathering statistics, discussing qualifications of each and every potential candidate and when all of the work is completed readers will be able to view our very own "Parade of Stars".

Those Stars will be here next week in the form of First and Second teams. There will also be a 'Coach of the Year' and a Honorable Mention list.

Protest lodged

Inkster: nullify Robichaud game

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Michigan High School state basketball tournaments may be over but a controversy lingers in this area over the outcome of a Class B district championship game staged between host Robichaud and Inkster.

Robichaud managed to defeat its natural rival, Inkster, 84-78 before a standing room only crowd after coach Bill Ayler's Bulldogs had lost to the Vikings and Coach George Thompson Jr. twice during the Suburban Athletic Conference campaign.

Robichaud went on to capture the district title, regional championship before losing to Saginaw Buena Vista in the semi-finals of the state playoffs.

Inkster Coach George Thompson believes that state rules were violated during the district tournament when Robichaud officials replaced an ailing referee with another reportedly without informing the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

Thompson offered some game stats to back up his argument that the game had overtones of being officiated against his team. He is asking the MHSAA - the august body that governs high school athletics in the state to overturn the results and have the game replayed.

State officials say they do not recall when a state basketball playoff game was ruled invalid and the game replayed. However, they also refuse to comment on the Thompson letter, saying only "that they are looking into the matter."

Below is Coach Thompson's letter, dated March 12, 1985, to Mr. Vern Norris, director of the MHSAA.

Gentlemen:
It is with great regret that I find that rules and policies made by the Michigan High School Athletic Association are not uniformly followed by all district managers in state high school tournament play-offs. It is even more distressing to discover that when these infractions are made known no penalties result.

The policies I am referring to are the procedures adopted by the state on substituting officials in the case of an emergency. The procedure stated to me by State Tournament Director Mr. Sibley is as follows:

In the case of an official unable to perform his duties because of illness or other disability, the manager of that tournament is to call the state tournament director and be assigned another official for that particular event.

In the recent district tournament game between Inkster High School and Dearborn Heights Robichaud, this procedure was not followed. The state tournament director was never contacted when it became known that one of the officials had been injured and, therefore, would be unable to officiate the game scheduled. The district manager decided, without consulting either Inkster High School or State officials, to make his own substitution of the official.

The results were appalling:

- Only four of six free throws all night for Inkster;
- Twenty-two of twenty-eight free throws by Robichaud;
- No foul calls on center guarding Inkster center;
- Every charging foul called in the game was against Inkster;
- Every blocking foul called in the game was against Inkster;

Beginning of the end . . .

Robichaud's Jarvis Walker (22) finds Buena Vista's defense ready and disrupts the Buena Vista strategy with this first period jumper that split the basket.

A worried and problem-plagued Robichaud club is led off the Crisler Arena floor at halftime by Coach Bill Ayler (at far left) who saw the situation go from bad to worst.

Robichaud ends 'dream season'

another jump shot from the corner, lifting the Dearborn Heights cagers to a 7-1 advantage - what was to be their biggest margin during the entire game. Saginaw's Eddie Rogers's two-pointer cut the lead to 7-3 and Ricky Beachum sank a layup, making it 7-5.
Ayler decided that he needed speed - so he decided to go to the full-court press. That strategy immediately paid dividends as Omar Galbreath stole a pass and with some fancy dribbling cut through the Saginaw defenders and drove in for a basket. He also happened to be fouled in the process, giving him a bonus shot.
But Buena Vista began flexing its muscles. A "slam dunk" by Shoun Randolph cut Robichaud's lead to two (9-7) and McIntosh got that one back to give the Bulldogs a 11-7 margin. Beachum and Galbreath then exchanged baskets and Lowrey got one, and when Macon and Ken Clark exchanged baskets, the score ended in a deadlock for the first period at 15-all.

Robichaud continued to perplex their rivals in the early stages of the second period as Ballard broke the knot with a jumper and McIntosh then fired in another basket, giving the home team a 19-15 edge.
But then the proverbial roof began to collapse on the Bulldogs. Buena Vista's Randolph sank one of two free throws and Beachum contributed two successive baskets and a Robichaud traveling violation led to Macon's drive-through layup.

That basket put Buena Vista out in front 22-19 with 3:20 left in the period.
Ayler called for a time out and discussed the situation over with his players. When the game resumed, Galbreath came up with a basket and that moved the Bulldogs within one (22-21) of making up the difference. However, Macon and Walker then exchanged baskets and Beachum rammed one in, giving the Buena Vista players a 27-23 advantage.
Saginaw closed out the half by outscoring their rivals 5-2 in the final minutes, giving them a seven-point, 32-25, halftime advantage. After the intermission, Buena Vista increased the pressure and the advantage with six unanswered points, and before the eight minutes ended they had a commanding 21-point lead, 54-33.

There was no doubt about the outcome of the game the rest of the way.
"Experience was a major factor in this one," Ayler pointed out in the locker room after the game. "They had it. They've been here before and we hadn't. We were asking a lot from our kids and they did one heck of a job."
"And Buena Vista is an excellently coached team, but we did the most with our God-given ability and we're looking forward to next year."

Galbreath, who tossed in nine from the field and made two of two free throw, paced the Bulldogs with 20 points. Walker was the only other Robichaud cager in double figures. He had 13. Robichaud was near perfect at the foul line where they made 10 of 11, but they were gunned down from the field where Buena Vista had 36-to-23 edge.
Macon finished up with a game-high 30 points for the winners and Beachum had 16. Coles contributed 14.
Buena Vista advanced to the Class B state championship game and met Flint Beecher on Saturday in the Crisler Arena. Before a crowd estimated at 16,000, Beecher held off Buena Vista to capture the state title 74-72 in double overtime.

Flint Northern retained the Class A state title at the expense of Detroit Southwestern, 69-55. Detroit DePorres ruled Class C with a 48-36 victory over Iron River West Iron County.
In the quarter-finals, Robichaud annihilated Benedictine, 95-70, as Walker led the attack with 23 points and Galbreath counted 20 while Carreathers finished with 16 and McIntosh had 13. Ballard was in double figures with 12.

Kaestner is 'Hall of Famer'

BY TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer
Ken Kaestner, who for nearly two decades coached some of the finest high school football teams and players in the state, will be installed in the Michigan High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame next month.

The prestigious honor will be bestowed upon the former Livonia Churchill head football coach during ceremonies to be conducted at Crisler Arena, the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, on April 20.
Kaestner, 48, who has been a head coach for 16 of his 17 years, retired from active coaching two years ago. His 1972 and 1978 teams at Churchill went undefeated, and the 1978 team reached the state quarterfinals before losing a thriller to North Farmington, 14-3.
"It is an honor to be recognized by your peers," Kaestner said upon learning that he was one of several coaches in the state who had been singled out for the Hall of Fame.
"I believe that I can say I have been pretty lucky in my coaching career and in life because I have had the opportu-ity to work with some of the finest coaches and players around."

"And I sincerely believe sports and athletics are a vital means of building a strong personality," Kaestner continued. "I have never regretted being an athlete or a coach."
Born in the Michigan, Kaestner prepped at an Indiana high school where he lettered in the three major sports. He graduated from the University of Michigan in 1958.

During the span of 17 years as a coach, Kaestner has been named as the Associated Newspapers' "Coach of the Year" three times. He has been given similar recognition by the metropolitan Detroit dailies.
Kaestner revealed that he is getting restless in his "retirement" and has decided to return to the gridiron for the 1985 season as an assistant coach to Churchill's Herb Osterland, the man who replaced him.

"I love the game too much to stay away from it," he said.
Married to Marilyn, the Kaestners have three daughters: Susan 23, Jane 22, and Julie, 16. They make their home in Northville.

Baton wizard

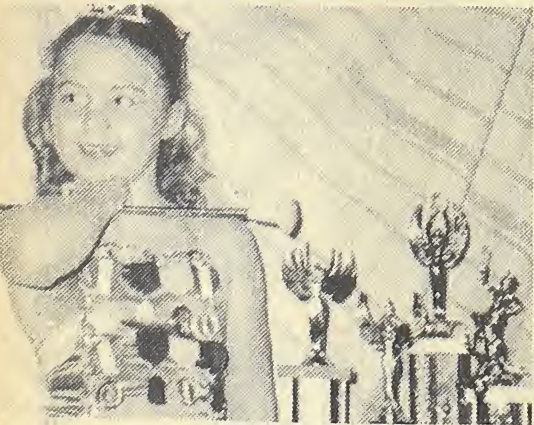

April brings . . . honors

April Williams is only seven-years-old, but the pretty Belleville strutter can twirl her baton as good as someone three times her age.
The daughter of Dawn Williams, April is a member of Sugar Babbe Strutters, a group that meets every Wednesday and is sponsored by the Belleville Moose Lodge 934.

Dawn, like her team members, have advanced to compete in various district and state competitions and she had 16 medals and trophies to show for her efforts.

Proud of her second place trophy for world twirling, a mascot.

Dawn launched her batoning career at the ripe 'old' age of five and has been a featured attraction with the Sugar Babbe Strutters since joining the group as a mascot.

•Numerous blocked shots and traveling calls extremely questionable;
If this is the method used by tournament officials, there appears to be no need for a state tournament director and policies regarding tournament play; and in view of such flagrant disregard of state policies and the failure by state officials, at this point in time, to reprimand the Robichaud management, the only fair solution of this situation is to replay the district championship game between Inkster and Dearborn Heights Robichaud."

The letter was signed by George C. Thompson, Jr., head varsity basketball coach.

Westland police sponsor benefit

What does the Westland police force do besides help maintain law and order in the community?

The police, in cooperation with the Police Officers Association of Michigan, will host their annual Country-Western show at 8 p.m. on June 10 at The Center Stage, 39940 Ford Road, Canton Township.

Retired Westland patrolman Ronald Altwies explained that the proceeds from this annual performance are donated to numerous charities. He noted that the profits will be used to feed needy families, buy uniforms for children's athletic teams, send talented children to camp and send handicapped children to special schools capable of dealing with their disabilities.

The Country-Western Show previously has generated from $1,000 to $4,000 in profit, according to Altwies.

"Since a large audience is expected at the show (this year), the POA is expecting to earn approximately $3,000," he said.

The Kendals, the band to be featured at the event, is a father and daughter Country-

Western singing combination.

Tickets for the show are priced at two for $15 in advance and may be reserved by phoning the Westland police department at 722-9600. Tickets also will be available at the door for $10 apiece.

The police officers will be in charge of all promotional activities for the musical show, including posting signs advertising the event.

The association sponsors several fund-raising events in addition to the concert, including the Policeman's Ball. Further information on the upcoming show can be obtained from Westland police officers.

"We try to help the community in any way that we can by sponsoring fundraisers," Altwies explained. "I am proud to be part of the POA of Michigan."

Small retail store alleges abuse from landlord!

Your responses to my column are most appreciated. Keep in touch with me at 41727 Joy Road, Canton, MI 48187 or (313) 455-8892. Due to space constraints, the original "request" letter to The Letter Writer is always shortened in this column.

Dear Letter Writer:

I am furious and don't know what to do. If something doesn't happen, my landlord is going to put me out of business. I just got a letter from him saying that we were in violation of our lease because of certain items that we were selling. Can you please write a real strong letter to him so that I can find out what he is going to do. He keeps coming into the store and telling me that I will have to move. I am becoming a wreck and he is intimidating and, frankly, scaring me because I have worked hard for this business. Once he even came in and yelled at me when I had customers in the store. This was, needless to say, embarrassing. He says I am competing with other tenants.

Sincerely, TT"
Dear Shopping Center Manager:
I am in receipt of your letter of

Feb. 11, 1985. Please accept this letter as an attempt on my part to amicably resolve and put this matter to rest.

My present lease represents a term of five (5) years, beginning Sept. 1, 1984 through Sept. 1, 1989. This is my second, five-year lease with your company. In short, I have been a tenant for six years.

Upon execution of our first lease in September, 1979, my shop began operation as a tobacco and gift item retail store. Thus, from September, 1979, to date, we have, with your full knowledge and consent, complied with the lease. Your referenced letter, in part, states...

"... we have a problem with some of the items you have added to your store, which was PRIMARILY a tobacco store." (Emphasis Added)

It is our position that... - we are, in no way, in violation of our lease

- we have "added" nothing, with the exception of volume, to our inventory
- at no time did you ever inform us that we were selling "lease violating" items.

Would you please inform us, in writing, as to the names of the Tenants whose "... rights we are infringing upon."

You have issued a "30 day" threat, i.e. March 11, 1982, therefore, we would encourage you to reply on or before Feb. 22, 1985 with regard to your intentions in this matter.

The position you have taken, in our opinion, is arbitrary, capricious, harrassing and discriminatory. Should you fail to contact us immediately, we shall seek our remedy under the law.

Sincerely, TT

"RESOLUTION: This matter is by no means resolved. However, the landlord did respond to TT promptly and informed her that they were beginning eviction proceedings. TT will now, obviously, have to secure legal counsel.

dan's dogs

by dan a. morris

Copyright 1985 by Dan Morris

Editor's note: Dan Morris has been a professional dog trainer for more than 20 years and has worked in all phases of dog training. If you have a specific problem, his advice is available by writing him in care of Associated Newspapers, P.O. Box 578 Wayne, Michigan 48184. He will reply in the column.

Introducing your dog to grooming can be a pleasant experience or a total disaster, depending upon the time you wait before getting the dog accustomed to the procedure.

For those who have a dog under six months of age, I would highly suggest purchasing or making a small stepping stool (like those children use to reach the sink). Prior to feeding the dog, place his front paws on the stool. With the dog in this position, you will be able to brush the dog in all directions. By repeating this practice, he will go to the grooming stool and place both feet on it waiting to be groomed before being fed.

Once we get front paws on the stool, what do we do next? The first step in grooming long haired dogs should be fingertip rubdown from tail to head, going against the grain. This will loosen all the dead hairs and prepare your dog for the second step using a slicker brush also against the grain. (Don't use a tremendous amount of pressure with the slicker so you don't rip out the undercoat). The third step is using the slicker brush with the grain, head to tail. The fourth step is another palm and fingers rubdown.

Before the palm rubdown, look at your hands. After vigorously rubbing the dog's back, hand-over-hand method for a period of about three times, examine your hands again and you will find a powdery, oily substance. When you see this, you will know that you are bringing out the dog's natural oils.

Doing this daily will give your dog added protection from the elements, similar to waxing a car. By using the palm rubdown, you are also able to detect any sores, cuts, fleas or excess dirt. Your dog will be happier and healthier because of your daily grooming.

The fifth step is using a comb at a 45-degree angle with the grain. If you used it the other way you could rip out the undercoat. Use a comb as a final step.

Short-haired dogs like the boxer, Doberman, Great Dane, etc. Only the fingertip and palm rubdown.

The poodle and other small dogs have different hair texture. Most of us bathe our dogs, rub them dry with towels and unknowingly cause matting which goes unnoticed because surface brushing gives the dog the appearance of full coat. For example, it's like washing your hair and towel-drying it for five days in a row without combing or brushing it. Your hair would become so tangled and matted that the only remedy would be to clip it.

Matting sometimes begins this way: Small dogs go outside to relieve themselves. Because of their size, they cannot help but get their underneath wet form the grass. While drying, the hair tangles.

It is very important to wipe off your dog and brush out the wet hair. Remember summer and fall are flea and tick seasons and these parasites do enormous damage by embedding themselves into the matted area, constantly tormenting the dog.

It is difficult to reduce the methods of grooming to a few single steps. It is time-consuming and tedious. In the long run, this task pays off in the compliments we receive for our dog's appearance and in the satisfaction we get knowing we are doing the best for our dog!

Jail tours available

Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard has announced the availability of guided tours of the new county jail for schools and other small civic groups.

Opened in July after more than 10 years of planning and construction, the $53 million facility in downtown Detroit has capacity for nearly 1,000 inmates.

"Obviously it is the essential link in our public safety and criminal justice system, and it is the taxpayers most important expenditure for security," said Beard.

"The tours are valuable because they show a phase of government visibly at work, and should act as a crime deterrent for youngsters," Beard said. "I certainly would hope that the image of penalty and imprisonment would linger in their minds long after the visit."

Beard said tour groups should be 25 or fewer, and visits must be booked in advance. Arrangements are available through her office at 224-0902.

Beyer hospital has March 30 date with Health-O-Rama

Beyer Memorial Hospital will once again join Project Health-O-Rama to offer free health screenings to area residents.

The Beyer screenings will take place on Saturday, March 30, from noon to 4:30 p.m. at the hospital, located at 135 S. Prospect, Ypsilanti. To register, enter through the main entrance of the hospital.

Health-O-Rama is an annual event co-sponsored by WXYZ-TV, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, United Health Organization and participating hospitals and organizations. Intended to promote a healthy lifestyle and wellness attitudes, the screenings provide basic information on a person's health to identify health risks.

The full screening includes blood pressure tests, screenings for glaucoma and hearing problems, height and weight checks, a health hazard appraisal and a health history, nutrition counseling plus health information and referrals. For a $7 fee, a blood test will be done. This test requires one blood sample drawn at the site and yields 21 different tests to detect illness. If you plan on having the blood test performed, do not eat for at least four hours prior to arriving at the testing site.

Also included will be medication counseling to advise people of drug interactions and to identify outdated prescriptions. Residents interested in medication counseling should bring their prescriptions to the site.

"Beyer participates in Health-O-Rama each year to help the community get a start towards wellness," said Hane McCormick, Beyer Administrator. "The key to maintaining health is both prevention and early detection of an illness. The screenings cover a wide variety of information to give people the data they need to make wise health choices."

In service

Two Romulus city employees were recently recognized for their respective 10 years of service with the community. Receiving the recognition from Mayor Beverly McAnally (center) were Wiley Montgomery (left) and Bonneita Simko.

Raising Spirits

Pamela Zoller of Belleville helps raise Spartan spirits each week as one of 35 steering committee members of Michigan State University's Student Foundation.

members. Together, they organize the Spartan Card Block, Spartan Slap Shots and Spartan Spirits — student groups which help energe enthusiasm at MSU's Big Ten athletic events.

The foundation also coordinates Student Ambassadors, a student tour guide group which guides thousands of campus visitors each year, and student/family events such as Parents Weekend and Siblings Weekend.

Founded in 1976 through the university's Development Fund Office, the Student Foundation has become one of the most widely recognized student organizations at MSU.

Zoller, a business-personnel administration junior, serves the steering committee as co-coordinator of Siblings Weekend. She is the daughter of Sophie and Harry Zoller, and a 1982 graduate of Belleville High School.

Huron BPW Club seeks members

A group of women in Huron Township are interested in forming a local chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Organization.

Several informal meetings have been held, and the planners are now seeking women with common interests to assist them in the organization.

Membership is open to any woman who is actively engaged in business or profession although that does not prohibit any woman in the area from joining.

There are many, many advantages to being a member of the BPW -- to name just a few:

(1) BPW/USA members have access to a wide range of personal services, including a loan up to $5,000, just on your signature, a home equity loan, up to $50,000. A variety of insurance options (health, life insurance, income continuity) at affordable group rates. An investment and financial planning service, group travel, automobile lease/buy and credit card programs.

(2) The Cancer Fund is available to any member in need of financial assistance due to illness causing catastrophic expense.

(3) The Georgia Emory Scholarship Fund offers grants of up to $500 for training or re-training along vocational lines. In addition, there is also a National Foundation in Washington, D.C., which offers grants and scholarships for advancement.

(4) The benefit of personal and professional development in skills and seminars of interest to all women in the community.

(5) To promote and support women as business and community leaders.

The next meeting of the Huron Township BPW Club will be held on Tuesday, April 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the Huron Community Center (Waltz Hall) on Mineral Springs.

CANCELLATIONS AND CORRECTIONS
Read your ad carefully the first time it appears, and report any errors before the next edition. This will be the only proof you will receive. Errors should be reported immediately, as Associated Newspapers, Inc. can be responsible for the first incorrect insertion only. NO CASH REFUNDS WILL BE MADE.

PUBLICATION POLICY
The publisher reserves the right to edit or reject and properly classify advertising submitted for publication. Publisher shall not be held liable for typographical errors except to the extent of the cost of first insertion and then only for that portion of ad that may have been rendered valueless by such error. Advertisers are advised to check their ad immediately after it appears in the paper and report at once any error found. Claims for error adjustment must be made immediately after ad is published.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED AD
1. IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the item or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, it's better to start your advertisement with the location.
2. BE CLEAR. Readers react more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. One of the most important considerations of any advertisement is to include the price.
3. MAKE IT EASY for the reader to reach you. ALWAYS INSERT your telephone number or your name and address if you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time to have prospects contact you.
4. PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good classified ad.
5. CLASSIFIED READERS are usually interested in buying used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are in the market to buy. Give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.
6. CLASSIFIED ADS THAT FAIL to do so through a lack of readability, but because they are often worded and do not contain enough information to prompt action.

Canton's canine 'cop' mixes work with family life

By ROSE MARY REIZ
ANP Staff Writer

The expert tracking that led Canton police officers to the back door of a burglary suspect's home last week was just part of a day's work to Rico, one-half of the Canton Police Department's two-member canine unit.

Rico's participation in the investigation has resulted in the clearing of five burglary cases and, according to Canton Det. William Keppen, illustrates the service that police dogs provide.

"It's an excellent example of the good these dogs can do," says Keppen, who handles one of the department's two canines.

Both Rico, handled by officer Ernie Sayre, and Keppen's Nitro, joined the Canton force at 15 weeks of age in 1979.

The purebred German shepherd puppies, like all dogs used in police work, were chosen for a lineage that promotes good health and steady temperaments, the most important aspects of police work.

To prepare both officers and dogs for situations in which human lives may depend upon an animal's ability to follow instruction, Rico, Nitro and their handlers underwent an extensive 14-month training program which emphasized techniques in tracking, building search, protection of handlers and obedience before both animals were certified by two independent judges.

For Keppen and his young partner Nitro, the certification signaled the beginning of what has become a personal as well as professional relationship.

"Up until a year ago, I was working midnight patrol and Nitro rode with me in the squad car for the entire shift," Keppen explains.

In a situation not uncommon to companions who live and work together (police dogs live in the homes of the officers who handle them) Keppen and Nitro developed a sense of friendship, respect and teamwork that can be lifesaving.

"The safety factor is tremendous," Keppen says. "Take the case of a building search, a dangerous situation for an officer. Rather than wander around in a dark building where the suspect has the advantage, you can send the dog in and wait until he's located the suspect. In that situation, a dog can accomplish in five minutes what it would take a dozen officers an hour to do."

Neither of the dogs has ever been hurt while on duty, Keppen says, adding that the animals possess a definite psychological advantage over most suspects.

"After the dog has found someone, he is trained to stand and growl without moving as long as no one else makes an aggressive move," Keppen explains. "The dog looks so menacing, most suspects just give up."

"I once arrested three suspects who Nitro had found hiding in the woods," the detective recalls. "One of the men was so frightened of the dog, he wouldn't get up off the ground even when he was ordered to."

Police dogs, Keppen insists, enjoy feeling useful and take a special pride in the service they provide. After running a successful track, they are rewarded with play and, in Nitro's case, a little something extra.

"After a successful track, we usually stop at a doughnut shop for a treat," Keppen admits with a smile. "Nitro loves peanut doughnuts."

"Most departments don't have a canine unit because it's a major expense to train a qualified dog," Keppen explains. "In our case, we were lucky and the cost to Canton was minimal because our dogs were practically given to us and a professional trainer donated his time."

Now assigned to the detective bureau as a plain clothes officer, Keppen recalls his and Nitro's patrolling days with a fondness and nostalgia that his partner seems to share.

"Nitro recognizes my uniform," Keppen laughs. "When I put it on, he sits by the door under where his leash hangs. We still go out for romps and run periodic tracks so we don't get rusty."

According to Keppen, both Nitro and Rico possess on- and off-duty dispositions that make them as adaptable to home life as they are to police work.

"Nitro is really one of the family," Keppen says. "My wife is as attached to him as I am, and he's as protective of her as he is of me."

"It's the same with Rico," Sayre agrees. "When I got him, our daughter Leigh, who's five now, was just 6 months old and I was a little worried about having the two together, but Rico is great—very gentle and patient. She can grab something out of his mouth or accidentally step on him. He really watches out for her."
